

To Whom It May Concern

I have had the pleasure of knowing Easton Cline for the last few years. Easton was a freshman in my criminology class at Red Mountain High School. I was a little worried about having a freshman in my class because most freshman lack the maturity for the subject matter or struggle with adapting to high school. This was not the situation with Easton. He ended up being one of my top performing students and actually was way more mature than many of his classmates. I ended the semester being incredibly impressed with Easton.

Easton has so many skills that will make him an excellent leader and will make a huge difference on our campus and on other campuses that he may come into contact with. He is a very hard worker and makes sure all work is done completely and thoroughly. Easton always got along really well with his peers and actively participated in class discussions and debates. Easton was also always very polite to me as a teacher, and treated me with great respect.

I have complete faith that Easton would be an excellent leader and demonstrated himself to be one of the top students that I had to work with. His ability to work hard and show team work with others will get him very far in life. I hope that you consider Easton, and absolutely give my positive recommendation of him and who he is as a person. If you have any questions or concerns, please feel free to contact me.
